

Guy Maugis, re-elected president of AFNOR

Tuesday June 18, 2024, at the end of the annual general meeting of the French Standardization Association, the members of the board of directors renewed their confidence in Guy Maugis by unanimously reappointing him as president.

Guy Maugis was unanimously re-elected and confirmed in his role as president of the AFNOR group by the board of directors. He is now project manager in charge of the Bourgogne-Franche-Comté reindustrialization fund, reporting to the Minister of the Economy, Finance and Industrial and Digital Sovereignty Bruno Lemaire, and also a member of the strategic committee of SPEIRA, of WINOA.

He is also president of the Franco-German Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Guy Maugis is a polytechnician, a bridges and roads engineer, and a law graduate. His industrial and Franco-German background is part of AFNOR's ambitions to become even more involved in France 2030 and to support the sovereignty that Europe claims in the markets of tomorrow.

Alongside him, the members of the Council office are:

- Claire Chauvin (ORANGE), Vice-President
- Jérôme Delpuch, President of the Ethics Committee and Vice-President
- Stanislas Lucienne (SNDGCT), Treasurer
- Bruno Costes (AIRBUS), President of the CCPN
- Gilles Nativel (Enedis), President of the CEF committee.

About the AFNOR group

For almost a century, AFNOR has led private and public actors to collectively imagine a more responsible world guided by trust and quality. An associative group of 1,250 employees and 69,000 customers worldwide, present in 36 countries, AFNOR helps economic players to write a common language, make their solutions interoperable and list good practices in voluntary standards with an international vocation. The group, through its wide range of expertise, also trains professionals, employees or independents, to improve their skills, delivers robust certifications and signs of recognition which bring confidence to the market, and facilitates the deciphering of normative and regulatory developments with digital solutions. last generation. The AFNOR group is managed by Olivier Peyrat.
